Providence Farm is a supportive community that has been nestled in the heart of Cowichan Valley since 1979.

Today, with your help, Providence Farm provides over 180 weekly program spaces to adults living with mental health, substance use, brain injury, age-related illness and developmental disabilities.

The Farm's community-inclusive experiences are person-centered activities with a foundation in Nature Based Therapy and Trauma Informed Practices.

Together, The Farm's community cares for each other and the land, while focusing on holistic development, learning and growth.

A THERAPEUTIC COMMUNITY

Plant Hope. Harvest Joy!

2021-22 Annual Campaign

Our Mission

“Trusting in Providence, and building upon the faith-centered heritage of our founding members, we are committed to serving needs and to fostering talents of people in the Cowichan Valley, especially of those not easily accepted elsewhere, through our therapeutic community at Providence Farm. Our focus shall be upon the renewal of body and spirit, and upon people caring for the soil, and the soil nurturing the people.”

As we close out a second year of navigating pandemic life, Providence Farm is fortunate to say we continue to flourish.

In a time where public health officials have recommended physical distancing and outdoor activities, our mission proves ever more relevant and restoring – “our focus shall be upon the renewal of body and spirit, and upon people caring for the soil, and the soil nurturing the people.”

Together, we reflect on the lessons the land has shared with us over the years and which still hold true; reaffirming our understanding that stewardship for the land nourishes and that natural aspects of our property lend themselves to the healing and strengthening of our community.

From the original founders whose vision laid the foundations of Providence Farm to the current group of participants, staff, volunteers and supporters who join together in shaping the farm as it is today; we find ourselves paying homage to the land, again and again.

For each of us alike, Providence Farm continues to offer a sense of reprieve from a world that can feel daunting or unsafe. This community of ours offers a space in which we can continue to come together to plant hope and harvest joy.

We are blessed and we are thankful.

We now call ourselves “family” and together we reach out to you; our supporters, members and friends, for another season of giving.

We are keenly aware that it is with your support that our community continues to thrive. Every donation directly fosters our ability to meet the needs of some of the most vulnerable members of our community, to maintain our programming and to continue to care for the land that, in turn, supports us.

We thank each of you for caring for our community, for allowing us the good fortune to continue to provide and for being a part of what makes Providence Farm truly remarkable.

With gratitude from all of us,
